

One of the most mysterious places in ancient Egypt was the inside of a temple and to us, the most mysterious is the inside of the pyramids. Pyramids were temples which were the homes of the gods and goddesses and very few people were allowed to see the inside. Egyptian pyramids hold some of the world's oldest mysteries and secrets. It was a Thursday evening, I remember it well, and my team and I had the opportunity to investigate the pyramids freely (without any tourists buzzing around).

The night before, I could not sleep for the excitement; I got out of bed just before the blistering sun rose from the east. As soon as it appeared I could feel the warmth of its rays piercing through to my bones. We set off to Giza, where the majestic pyramids lay, ready to explore...

Complete my short story, focus on including:

- describing the settings using expanded noun phrases and your 5 senses (what you can: taste, touch, smell, hear and see.)
- 3 coordinating conjunctions (for, and, nor, but, or, yet, so) in compound sentences.
- 1 metaphor e.g: the lamp in the sky shone bright.
- 1 simile e.g: as hard as rock or the bread was like rock.
