Kate and Neo stood proud, their bodies and minds ready for anything that was about to attack them, they both felt like they were ready to take on the world, but in reality it was the sarcophagus that they were in search of, not caring if the curse was real or not. Beneath their feet crunched the bones of a thousand species, Neo knew he had to tread carefully, he lit his torch and winked at Kate, who signalled to him that she had a great idea! Eagerly she tapped on her belt, Neo tapped his too, and they both knew what was about to happen...
